SHORT and FAT of Battery Cables

Cheap battery cables costs us all Big Bucks in problems that could be avoided.

Linda Oak 908-506-84
Myraa Guarante

Resistance (voltage drop) is the enemy! Increased resistance between the battery and the starter causes the starter to turn slower and work harder. Resistance increases in direct relation to the length, and/or the decrease in diameter of a replacement battery cable.

Contel Shipping Division 908-743-7970

● To get full battery voltage to the starter during cranking, always use SHORT and FAT battery cables!

● Use copper strand battery cables; aluminum cables do not carry current as

- A) DASDO #88-026 DATED JULY 8, 1988
- B) STAFF REPORT OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE ON INTERNATIONAL
OPERATIONS TITLED "OVERSIGHT OF THE US&FCS" DATED 6/19/88.

A. SAN DIEGO WAS VISITED IN EARLY AUGUST BY THIS TEAM AND THE COLLECTIVE ASSESSMENT OF THOSE "INTERVIEWED" IS A CONTINUING DEEP CONCERN OVER THE DISTINCT POSSIBILITIES THAT INSTEAD OF DETERMINING WAYS TO INCREASE DOMESTIC OFFICE ASSETS AND CAPABILITIES AN ITA/DOC
POSITION MAY WELL EVOLVE OF INTERGRATING MORE FUNCTIONS WITH STATE
OFFICES OR WITH OTHER ORGANIZATIONS UP TO AND INCLUDING PHASING OUT CERTAIN DISTRICT OFFICES.

IT IS OUR PERCEPTION THAT THE TEAM RECOMMENDATION TO THE SECRETARY
DUE BY SEPTEMBER 15, 1988 MAY WELL BE HEADING THAT WAY.

THE SAN DIEGO DEC HAS SENT A LETTER TO THE SECRETARY STRONGLY URGING THAT THE INTERNATIONAL TRADE ADMINISTRATION DISTRICT OFFICES BE STRENGTHENED, NOT DILUTED OR ABOLISHED.

WE SURELY TRUST THAT ALL DECS WILL IMMEDIATELY COMMUNICATE THEIR POSITION TO THE SECRETARY TO LEND HIM SUPPORT IN HIS DECISION MAKING.
BE AWARE. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE.

B. CONGRESSMAN DANIEL A. MICA'S SUBCOMMITTEE ON INTERNATIONAL OPERATIONS HAS COMPLETED THEIR STAFF REPORT TITLED "OVERSIGHT OF THE

THERE SEEMS TO BE A PERCEPTION FROM SOME RECIPIENTS OF REFERENCE (C)
THAT SAN DIEGO DEC'S LETTER TO THE SECRETARY IS NEGATIVE OR CRITICAL. THAT CERTAINLY WAS NOT THE INTENT. THE SAN DIEGO DEC
STRONGLY SUPPORTS THE SECRETARY AND HIS EFFORTS TO ENHANCE DOC'S EXPORT PROMOTION PROGRAMS.

THE SAN DIEGO DEC'S LETTER TO THE SECRETARY (SENT IN THEIR ADVISORY CAPACITY TO THE SECRETARY'S OFFICE) FOLLOWS IN ITS ENTIRETY:

QUOTE.

7 SEPTEMBER 1988

THE HONORABLE C. WILLIAM VERITY
SECRETARY OF COMMERCE
U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20230

DEAR MR. SECRETARY:

IN OUR ADVISORY CAPACITY TO YOUR OFFICE WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR CONTINUING CONCERN OVER THE POSSIBILITIES THAT THE CURRENT STUDY OF ALTERNATIVES TO ACHIEVING THE US&FCS DOMESTIC MISSION MAY LEAD TO FURTHER DILUTION OF THE DOMESTIC SYSTEM. IT IS OUR FEELING THAT THE DOMESTIC SYSTEM SHOULD BE STRENGTHENED, NOT DILUTED, TO MEET THE GREATER DEMAND OF THE INTERNATIONAL TRADING COMMUNITY, PARTICULARLY AT THIS TIME WHEN EXPORT OPPORTUNITIES ARE AT A PEAK.

OUR SAN DIEGO DISTRICT OFFICE WAS ONE VISITED BY THE ITA-OIG TEAMS
AND IT IS THE PERCEPTION OF THOSE INTERVIEWED THAT THE ITA/DOC

POSITION COULD EVOLVE INTO INTEGRATING MORE FUNCTIONS INTO OTHER STATE OR PRIVATE ORGANIZATIONS. AS EXPRESSED PREVIOUSLY WE SHOULD BE DETERMINING WAYS TO INCREASE THE DOMESTIC OFFICE ASSETS AND CAPABILITIES WHERE THE PRIME OBJECTIVE IS SOLELY INTERNATIONAL AND NOT WAYS TO CUT BACK OR TRANSFER RESPONSIBILITIES TO OTHERS.

MR. SECRETARY, WE BELIEVE THAT DANIEL A. MICA'S STAFF REPORT OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE ON INTERNATIONAL OPERATIONS, COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS - OVERSIGHT OF THE U.S. AND FOREIGN COMMERCIAL SERVICE - JUNE 19, 1988 "HITS THE NAIL ON THE HEAD" AND SHOULD BE REVIEWED FOR ITS RECOMMENDED ACTION. MY PREDECESSOR SAM ARN WAS PRIVILEGED TO TESTIFY BEFORE THIS SUBCOMMITTEE.

WE WOULD LIKE TO HELP FURTHER THIS EFFORT. YOU MOST ASSUREDLY HAVE OUR SUPPORT.

VERY TRULY YOURS,

A.B. "BECK" KISSELBURGH,
CHAIRMAN, SAN DIEGO DISTRICT EXPORT COUNCIL

END QUOTE.

FIRE BELL OIL WELL FIRE EXTINGUISHING AND OIL RECOVERY SYSTEM

The Fire Bell system is remarkably simple. The basic premise of the Fire Bell system is that if an oil well fire has no oxygen, there will be no fire. The Fire Bell has been designed to exploit this premise while providing maximum safety for fire fighters.

Fire Bell Design

The Fire Bell is designed to contain any size oil well fire. The Fire Bell has been designed as an inverted cone which channels oil and gas escaping from the damaged well head upward and out of the Fire Bell.

After the Fire Bell has been placed over the well head, oil and gas is funneled out of the top of the Fire Bell through a conventional blow out preventer. When the Fire Bell is placed over the damaged well head, the blow out preventer is in the open position allowing the release of the oil and gas while keeping pressures in the bell at a minimum.

The sides of the Fire Bell are a double-walled chamber that can be filled with water or weighted muds. For larger oil well fires with high pressures, conventional weighted drilling muds can be used in the Fire Bell to hold the Bell in place. The fluid in the double-walled chamber can also act as a cooling agent while the Fire Bell is being positioned over the fire.

Oil and Gas Containment

After the Fire Bell is centered over the projecting pipe, the bottom Fire Bell doors are hydraulically closed and sealed around the pipe. If extreme pressures are encountered, quick-setting cement can be injected into the 18 inch subfloor between the doors and the ground surface as a safety factor.

After the oil well fire is extinguished, the fire fighter has three options with the Fire Bell. 1) Put the well back into production by connecting the Fire Bell to a pipeline, 2) "Kill" the oil well by injecting weighted muds into the Fire Bell and subsequently into the oil well, or, 3) Leave the extinguished oil well to be repaired by a drill rig that can re-enter the Fire Bell through the blow out preventer located on the top of the Fire Bell.

FIRE BELL SYSTEM INSTALLATION

Site Preparation

Installation of the Fire Bell System requires minor site preparation around the damaged well head. Fences, pipes and other debris found around the well head for approximately 20 feet must be removed and the ground leveled to the extent possible. Site preparation provides a prepared surface on which to set the Fire Bell. If the well casing is less than 24 inches above the ground the area around the well head will have to be excavated with a drag line.

Fire Bell Preparation

Depending on the size of the oil well fire and the pressures involved, a ballast and cooling fluid of water or weighted mud is selected and pumped into the Fire Bell's double walled chamber.

Hydraulic lines are connected to the Fire Bell. Hydraulic lines operate the blow out preventer located at the top of the Fire Bell, the Bell doors, and other valves that are connected to pipes entering the pressure chamber.

If required, the Fire Bell is constructed to allow CO₂ to be injected into the Fire Bell chamber to provide additional fire suppression capability. If needed, the CO₂ lines must be attached at the same time as the hydraulic lines.

Fire Bell Emplacement

A large, truck-mounted crane will be used to place the Fire Bell over the oil well fire. Two dozers with winches will be used to assist the crane with the Fire Bell emplacement. The dozers winch lines will stabilize the Fire Bell over the oil well fire and assist in centering the Fire Bell over the well head. Preliminary contacts with contractors in Saudi Arabia have located several truck-mounted cranes that are capable of the lift capacities needed to place the Fire Bell over the well head.

FIRE BELL EXTINGUISHING SYSTEM

Once the Fire Bell is in place, the hydraulic pipe collar doors will be closed. If necessary, quick setting cement can be injected into the Fire Bells sub-floor to prevent any oil and gas pressure loss from beneath the Fire Bell.

After the cement has had an adequate opportunity to set in the Fire Bells sub-floor, the blow out preventer on the top of the Fire Bell is hydraulically closed. Once the blow out preventer is closed, the oil well fire is extinguished and the well oil and gas is contained within the Fire Bell.

Once the Fire Bell has extinguished and contained the oil well fire, one of several options can be undertaken. Oil production from a flowing well can begin immediately by opening production valves in the Fire Bell, downhole well repairs can be affected by killing the well by injecting weighted muds into valves in the Fire Bell, or, the well can be repaired by a drill rig that re-enters the well through the blow out preventer located on the top of the Fire Bell.

FIRE BELL MATERIALS AND CONSTRUCTION

The Fire Bell is constructed from readily available materials. All Fire Bell parts and materials are off-the-shelf items that do not require any specialized manufacturing. The Fire Bell has been designed to use existing parts so that production costs and construction lead time can be kept to a minimum.

The materials necessary to construct the Fire Bell include plate steel, standard valves and fittings, a blow out preventer, API piping and hydraulic rams. The equipment necessary to construct the Fire Bell include arc welders, cutting torches and small cranes.

The most efficient way to construct the Fire Bell is to assemble the majority of the Fire Bell in a major city that is near the well fire(s) where the Fire Bell is to be used. It is preferable that the city where the Fire Bell is to be constructed be a major port or have a large airport so that construction materials can be easily delivered. Final assembly of all aspects of the Fire Bell will occur at the well fire site.

E & M TRANSFER

There is a simple group of processes, transport processes, in which some physical quantity such as mass or energy or momentum or electrical charge is transported from one region of a system to another. Consider a metal for connecting two heat reservoirs at different temperatures. Heat flows through the bar from the high temperature reservoir to the low temperature reservoir; the heat flow is the manifestation of the transport of energy through the bar. The energy flow is easily measurable. Another example is the transport of electrical charge through a conductor by the application of an electrical potential difference between the ends of the conductor. Mass is transported in a flow of fluid through a pipe resulting from a pressure difference between the ends of the pipe. Diffusion is the mass transport which occurs in a mixture if a concentration gradient is present. The phenomenon of viscosity, the resistance to flow exhibited by fluids, results from the transport of momentum in a direction perpendicular to the direction of flow.

In all cases the flow, the amount of physical quantity transported in unit time through a unit of area perpendicular to the direction of flow, is proportional to the gradient of some other physical property such as temperature, pressure, or electrical potential. Choosing the z-axis as the direction of flow, the general law for transport is:

$$J_z = -B \frac{\partial y}{\partial z} \quad \text{eg 1}$$

J_z = flow (amount of the quantity transported per cm^2 per sec.

$-B$ = proportionality constant

$\frac{\partial y}{\partial z}$ = gradient of y in the direction of flow

y = quantity i.e., temperature, electrical potential, pressure, etc.

Since flow occurs in a particular direction, it is a vector quantity; equation 1 describes the z-component of the vector.

From the general form of equation 1 we have the following examples in the z direction

$$\text{Heat flow (Fourier's law)} \quad J_z = K_T \frac{\partial T}{\partial z} \quad \text{Eq. 2}$$

$$\text{Electric current flow (Ohm's law)} \quad J_z = -K \frac{\partial V}{\partial z} \quad \text{Eq. 3}$$

$$\text{Fluid flow (Poiseuille's law)} \quad J_z = -C \frac{\partial P}{\partial z} \quad \text{Eq. 4}$$

$$\text{Diffusion (Ficks law)} \quad J_z = -D \frac{\partial C}{\partial z} \quad \text{Eq. 5}$$

K_T = Coefficient of thermal conductivity

K = Coefficient of electrical conductivity

C = Coefficient of friction related to viscosity

D = Coefficient of diffusion
